INVITATION AND PARTICIPATION

An invitation to research cooperation

Dear members of the research and education community,

ACADEMIC SCIENCE PUBLISHING invites faculty members, researchers, doctoral candidates, independent scholars, master's students, undergraduates and professionals to take part in the International Scientific and Practical Conference to be held on 14 November 2026.

Conference theme: “Synergy of Science, Education and Innovation: International Cooperation and Development Prospects”.

CONFERENCE FORMAT

The conference is conducted remotely through publication of articles and extended abstracts in electronic proceedings, without live presentations.

MAIN AIM

To connect science, education and innovation, advance international research cooperation and translate research findings into practice.

- Bringing interdisciplinary research together
- Sharing advanced practice and new ideas
- Supporting early-career researchers

AIM AND OBJECTIVES

Three areas - one shared research goal

Bringing research, educational experience and innovative solutions together on a common platform.

01 SCIENCE

Fundamental and applied research, evidence-based conclusions and new scientific perspectives.

02 EDUCATION

Advanced teaching practice, quality education and the development of research capacity.

03 INNOVATION

Applying research findings, developing new technologies and exploring promising approaches.

KEY CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES

01 Support interdisciplinary research across different fields of knowledge.

02 Create new opportunities for international and domestic research cooperation.

03 Share innovative ideas, technologies and practical research outcomes.

04 Engage early-career researchers, master's students and undergraduates in research.

05 Present research proposals and recommendations that support sustainable development.

06 Share research findings with the academic community through electronic proceedings.
